Biography	Born in 1818 in Ecclefechan, Scotland, Thomas Graham was a British Royal Navy Assistant Surgeon from 1840 until shortly before his death in 1850. He served aboard the HMS Warspite in the Mediterranean, on the coast of the United States of America and in the West Indies from 1841 until 1846, the HMS Madagascar in Ireland from 1846 until 1848, and the HMS Apollo in the Mediterranean, South America, South Africa and South East Asia from 1849 until 1850. He was promoted Surgeon weeks before dying from malaria in China. During his years abroad he corresponded regularly with his sister Catherine, who remained in Ecclefechan. These letters comprise the main body of Graham's surviving papers. John Beagle is a collector who came upon some of Thomas Graham's letters in 1978 while managing a stamp shop in Hobart, Tasmania.
